Welcome to Maryland

These are great days at the University of Maryland at College Park. The university, through an act of the state legislature, has been designated officially as the state's flagship campus with a mandate to become one of the nation's leading public universities. The effect of the mandate is for individuals from all corners of the university to aspire toward excellence, to think great thoughts and to become immersed in an educational enterprise of the highest caliber. There is an unmistakable momentum for change and a sense of heightened expectation at College Park- Maryland is choosing quality.

The faculty have enthusiastically endorsed a new general education program that began in the fall of 1990. It is a blueprint for comprehensive changes in the undergraduate experience at Maryland. The campus is reducing its undergraduate enrollment, improving the ratio between faculty and students, raising admissions standards, revamping the University Honors Program, strengthening the advising system, supporting expanded undergraduate research, and encouraging innovations in teaching.

A new language house has opened where student residents have direct satellite access to foreign language television broadcasts from the USSR, Latin America, Italy and Japan, and where, in a total immersion setting, they have pledged to speak their chosen language at all times. A new honors house, a stimulating living and learning center for undergraduates taking part in the University Honors Program, opened in 1992. An international house, a living-learning environment that will meet the growing needs of the diverse international population on campus, is in the works.

Our location adds to the excitement on campus, too. Few regions in the nation have the intellectual, cultural and physical resources to compare with those in the Baltimore-Washington, DC. corridor. College Park's location astride that corridor means that Maryland undergraduates may tap these resources to their fullest - through internships, research projects, cooperative work-study and other programs offering hands-on experience.

We invite you to take a closer look at the University of Maryland, its extensive academic programs, faculty, research facilities, student activities and support services and the resources and opportunities it offers. See for yourself the number of different ways in which Maryland is choosing quality. There has never been a better time to choose Maryland.

History

Just after the American Revolution, the state of Maryland established its first two colleges at Chestertown and Annapolis. By the 1850's, at least thirty little colleges had sprung up over the state, many with state support, but many of them disappearing within a few years. Then, in 1859 a different kind of institution appeared at College Park - the Maryland Agricultural College, the third such college in the world, created mainly for farmers' sons. The college was established by Charles Benedict Calvert, a wealthy planter from nearby Riversdale - now Riverdale- and later a congressman. Calvert built a handsome Gothic dormitory - classroom structure located in a grove of trees near the present Morrill Hall, and he divided the land down the Baltimore-Washington Turnpike into small plots where each of the 50-or-so students experimented with a different agricultural crop. After the Civil War the institution became a land-grant college, with small appropriations from Washington. The little college began to grow about 1900 when agricultural experiments began to bring prosperity to Maryland, and when the college expanded its offerings into engineering, business and liberal arts. In 1912 the old Gothic building burned, and the state provided modern structures. Women were admitted to the campus, and graduate work began. In 1920 the college combined with the long established professional schools of Baltimore and changed its name to the University of Maryland. Growth accelerated after 1935 when the politically astute football coach, H.C. 'Curley' Byrd became president, added scores of new programs, and won national football championships. In the 1950's and 1960's, President Wilson H. Elkins maintained the rapid growth, the College Park became one of the largest campuses in the nation. President Elkins, a Rhodes Scholar, transformed the institution's public image from that of a party school to one of academic integrity. In the 1970's and 1980's the university's graduate and research programs flourished. In 1988, the General Assembly of Maryland combined six state colleges with the five campuses of the University of Maryland, and specifically charged College Park with the role of leadership. The University of Maryland at College Park recognizes its special responsibility as the flagship and the largest of the eleven institutions within the statewide university system to lead the University of Maryland's quest for excellence. To this end, College park offers broad coverage in the traditional arts and sciences as well as a wide range of professional and pre-professional programs. The institution is organized into fourteen colleges and schools encompassing over 100 departments and campus-wide programs of study. A growing number of these departments and programs rank among the best in the nation. Today the University of Maryland at College Park stands, by any measure, as one of the leading institutions of higher education in the world.

Locale

The state of Maryland is unrivaled in its scenic beauty, its rich heritage, and its wealth of educational, recreational, and cultural opportunities. From the mountain passes of Garrett County in the west, to the sand dunes of Assateague Island on the Eastern Shore, and the cosmopolitan excitement of Baltimore and Washington, D.C., there is unparalleled variety of experiences and resources available to students at the university.

Nine miles from the nation's capital, the University of Maryland at College Park is within easy reach of the country's best research facilities. The Library of Congress, the National Archives, the Smithsonian Institution and the National Libraries of Agriculture and Medicine are among the many unique resources in the area.

In addition to traditional scholarly resources, the campus is surrounded by the dynamic cultural opportunities that only a major metropolitan area can provide. The Kennedy Center alone houses the National Symphony Orchestra, five performance stages, an opera company, and the American Film Institute. In Baltimore, one of the great ports of the world, a recent and remarkable renaissance has added the glistening touch of office towers and hotels to the quaint shops and ethnic restaurants of its many colorful neighborhoods. Harborplace and the National Aquarium anchor the Inner Harbor, which has become a cultural magnet for thousands of tourists each year.

The Chesapeake Bay accounts for nearly 20 percent of Maryland's acreage, and is a focal point for the serious study of estuarine ecology as well as a recreational treasure. It is the source of Maryland's famed crabs and other seafood specialties, and a refuge for many species of water fowl.

Not far from any point in the state is evidence of the burgeoning development which has made Maryland a model for economic growth and fiscal health. High tech, engineering, and service industries thrive in proximity to the campus, offering a wide spectrum of opportunities for work study or internships for students and career choices for graduates.

The University of Maryland at College Park, as the flagship campus of the state higher education system, is a vital part of Maryland's current prosperity and its vision for the future. For students here, the state offers a bounteous extension to the campus' own wealth of opportunity.

Tom Bradley

Head Coach

Tom Bradley returned to his alma mater five years ago and gave the Terrapin team its first winning season in several years. It wasn't a surprise to the College Park community that Bradley could turn things around at Shipley Field. Success seems to follow the Maryland graduate - On the playing field, in the classroom, or as a coach, he has excelled in every aspect.

Bradley earned his 500th career victory two years ago, becoming one of only a handful of active coaches to make such a mark. He enters his 17th season with a career record of 535-405-3.

Returning to his alma mater in 1991, Bradley replaced his former coach Elton S. "Jack" Jackson. In his first season at Maryland, Bradley led the Terps to their first winning season (29-27-1) in 8 years. In the past four seasons, the squads have earned 24 or more wins, defeating several nationally ranked teams along the way.

Bradley, a former Terrapin star, is the ACC career leader in ERA (1.33) and ninth on the ACC all-time list with 10.70 strikeouts per game. The Terps placed second in the ACC in Bradley's sophomore and junior years. Bradley was a Sporting News third team All-America selection in 1968 and a two-time All-ACC selection.

Following his junior year, Bradley was drafted by the California Angels in the fifth round of the free agent draft.

After playing Class A ball for the Angels in 1969, he was elevated to the major leagues. The Angels traded Bradley to the Chicago White Sox where he won 15 games in both 1971 and 1972, striking out over 200 hitters each year.

In 1973, Bradley was traded to San Francisco. He won 13 games for the Giants and was the Giants starter on Opening Day of 1974. During that season, he injured the rotator cuff in his pitching arm.

Bradley retired from professional baseball in 1977, while playing for the Oakland Athletics. He ended his career with 55 wins and a 3.72 ERA.

Soon after his retirement, Bradley was hired as the pitching coach at St. Mary's College of California. After one year, Bradley took a head coaching position at Jacksonville University beginning in the 1979 season.

He departed for the Sunshine State where he would stay for 12 years, lifting the Dolphin program to new heights. Bradley compiled a career record of 431-291 in his tenure with the Dolphins, including a 42-22-0 mark and Jacksonvilles first Sun Belt Conference title in 1989. The Dolphins were ranked among the nation's top 25 during six seasons under Bradley. The team finished ranked among the top 25 teams in the Baseball America and the Collegiate Baseball/ESPN polls in his last year (1990). Bradley focused the eye of the baseball world on the Dolphin program as he helped bring night baseball to Jacksonville when the New York Yankees donated lights for their home field.

Numerous Bradley understudies have been drafted in to the major leagues, including nine Terrapins.

Bradley was also an outstanding student at the University of Maryland. During the same year he was drafted (1968), he was named Maryland's Scholar Athlete of the Year. The honor is the highest award given to the top academic and athletic student-athlete at Maryland. He returned to school and graduated Cum Laude in 1972 with a major in Latin and a minor in Greek.

Bradleys wife Kathy is a second grade teacher at Washington Episcopal School in Bethesda. They have two children. Daughter Alix is a sophomore at St. Johns College High School. Son Andy is in seventh grade at St. Marks School.

Academic Support

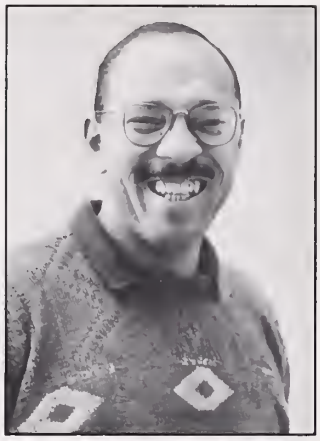
The commitment to academic achievement is at the forefront of the athletic department's responsibility to every student-athlete. Striving for excellence is not just something that the University of Maryland student-athletes do on the field.

Toward the goal of a successful academic experience for each student-athlete, the athletic department created the Academic Support Unit.

Academic Support offers a comprehensive program for personal and academic development that includes:

* Personal academic assessment
* Academic advising and counseling
* Supervised study
* Learning and study skill programs
* Computer training and usage
* Group and individual tutoring
* Career mentoring
* Summer internships

Don Pearman, who works directly on a day today basis with the men's baseball team, is in his second year with the Maryland Academic Support Unit. His experience reaches many realms of the University System, working within its boundaries over the last four years. Prior to joining the ASU, Pearman was the program director of the Meyerhoff Scholarship Program at the University of Maryland-Baltimore County campus. A model program of minority recruitment in the fields of math and sciences, the



Don Pearman

Meirhoff program is widely emulated. In the ASU, Pearman is responsible for post-graduate scholarship endeavors, the unit's tutorial programs, as well as monitoring the men's baseball and basketball teams.

In addition to individual academic counseling, each member of the ASU serves the department in many other capacities. The staff operates the ever-expanding computer room, where student athletes in all sports gain hands-on experience with various computer hardware and software. The ASU also operates an extensive book room, where student-athletes have at their disposal the majority of the books they will need during their undergraduate careers.

More than 100 tutors in all academic disciplines are organized by the ASU. Student athletes can receive specialized one-on-one training in any class by a qualified tutor at any time.

The Academic Support Unit at the University of Maryland has a positive and important impact on each of the student-athletes who join the Terps' program.

ASU'S Start Fast Program

Now in its second very successful year is the athletic department's Fast Start Program. This program is designed as a comprehensive preparation and study skills program designed to assist incoming student-athletes adjust to the academic and social rigors of college life.

Student Athlete Resource Tactics - Freshman Athlete Scholastic Training (Start Fast) is an orientation program designed especially for freshmen and transfer student-athletes. As part of their transition into campus life at Maryland, new students are required to participate in this program, which is a combined effort between the student-athletes, coaches, academic and development staff, campus faculty and administrators.

The focus of START FAST is to assist student-athletes in balancing their dual roles as students and athletes effectively. The program builds and improves student-athlete study skills as well as providing the student-athletes the opportunity to explore developmental issues.

During the course of the program, student-athletes are taught highly structured organizational planning which includes note taking, time management, proactive planning, learning strategies, test taking and writing skills.

Student-athletes prepare a FAST Notebook, in which they include daily scheduling, class notes, daily priority lists and summaries of each day's class lectures.

Additionally, weekly workshops, led by University faculty and staff, are scheduled that allow student-athletes to explore a variety of individual and campus issues. Career interests also are assessed on an individual basis and seminars on University survival skills - effective library use, utilizing advisors, computer assistance - also are a big part of the START FAST program.

ACC Tournament at Greenville, S.C.

The 22nd annual Atlantic Coast Conference Baseball Tournament, now regarded as one of the top events of its kind in the nation, returns to Greenville (S.C.) Municipal Stadium for the ninth consecutive year.

Starting with the 1994 tournament, the ACC determined its champion via a double-elimination format following a opening round game pitting the league's eight-and-nine seeded teams. The stadium, home to the Greenville Braves of the Southern League, has a capacity of 7,023.

ACC
ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE

The 1994 tournament attracted 40,028 fans over the nine sessions and 16 games. Since coming to Greenville in 1987, a total of 300,954 fans have attended the eight tournaments, as compared to the 150,592 total of the previous 13 tournaments. The tournament has averaged 37,619 per year during its stay in Greenville and is slated to remain in Greenville though 1995.

The inaugural ACC Tournament in 1973 attracted 6,800 spectators over ten games at North Carolina's Boshamer Stadium.

EVERYBODY TALKS ABOUT QUALITY TIME. HERE'S WHERE YOU GET IT.

The most important reason to fly USAir and USAir Express isn't the nearly 5,000 flights we offer to cities across the U.S., Canada, Bermuda, the Caribbean and Europe every business day. Or the friendly service. Or even the Frequent Traveler Program, where you get a free ticket at just 20,000 miles.

It's something much smaller, yet more significant. The chance to be home in time for a game of catch. To have dinner with the family. To sleep in your own bed instead of some hotel.

For that, you need same day, out and back service. The very thing USAir has built its reputation on for the last 43 years.

So if you think there's more to life than work, maybe what you need is an airline that works a little harder. So you don't have to. Contact your travel consultant or call USAir at 1(800)428-4322.
